The process of building trust is not an event, it is an ongoing action. Conversations are the ultimate human system to develop and deepen trust. It is through great conversations that people connect, empathise, collaborate and grow.

In this workshop you'll learn how conversations happen on many levels. How to identify the level of your interactions with your team, your stakeholders, the people around you and what outcomes you can expect from them to improve your impact and performance.

IN THIS WORKSHOP YOU WILL:

- Understand the importance of conversations in developing deeper trust, connection and the ability to collaborate and co-create.
- Identify the derailers that are hindering your capacity for connection and how to make small changes to have great conversations.
- Learn to take your conversations up to the next level for enhanced communication, connection and performance.
